

2026 Website & Lead Gen Guide for Malaysian SMEs

HOW MUCH THINGS REALLY COST, AND HOW TO GET LEADS FROM YOUR SITE

This short guide gives you the pricing reality for websites, web apps and dashboards in Malaysia, a clear look at how fixed-price work (instead of hourly surprises), and practical lead-gen steps — including WhatsApp reply scripts you can copy-paste today.

What's inside

1. What a Malaysian SME website actually costs

Prices in Malaysia vary wildly — from friends "coding something" for cheap, to agencies quoting five figures. The useful breakdown is by what you're actually buying:

- One-page business website — typically RM1,500 fixed. Hero, services, contact. Built to look professional and convert. This covers most contractors, clinics, salons, and freelancers.
- Multi-page business website — RM3,000–5,000 range. Services, team, testimonials, blog, individual product/portfolio pages.
- Web apps & dashboards — RM5,000+. Ordering systems, customer portals, internal dashboards, automation. Priced per project, never per hour blindly.
- Managed maintenance — from RM199/mo. Updates, small edits, uptime, peace of mind.

A website is a business asset, not a commodity. The cheapest quote is rarely the cheapest once you count rework, hidden charges, and a site that doesn't convert.

"A fixed OK quote upfront beats a cheap price plus surprise extras every time."

2. The fixed-price model (why it's safer for you)

At HaikaiTech we quote a fixed price before work begins. You know the total, the deliverables, and the timeline upfront — no hourly tracking, no surprise invoices. It works like this:

1. Tell us what you need — on WhatsApp, with a short description or a screenshot.
2. Get a fixed quote — scope, price, and timeline in writing.
3. Pay in milestones — typically 40% to start, 40% on review, 20% on delivery.
4. Launch & maintain — handover, your domain, optional RM199/mo care.

You're never locked into a black-box billing model, and both sides know what "done" means.

3. Lead-gen checklist for Malaysian SMEs

Most Malaysian customers reach out on WhatsApp. The businesses that reply fastest (and look professional) win. Use this checklist:

- Put a WhatsApp button above the fold on your homepage — most visits happen on phones.
- Reply within the hour during business hours — speed is a ranking factor for trust.
- Make your pricing clear (e.g. a starting price) so the right customers self-qualify.
- Add testimonials / past work near your contact CTA.
- Capture emails too — a short "get practical notes" form turns one-time visitors into repeat business.

The single biggest miss for small businesses: owning their list. WhatsApp DMs disappear; an email list (and a website you control) keeps working for years.

4. WhatsApp reply scripts that convert

Copy-paste these, then make them your own voice:

Fast first reply: "Hi! Thanks for reaching out — this is Iffat from HaikaiTech. Happy to help. Quick question: are you looking for a brand-new website, or improving one you already have?"

Qualify budget/size: "Got it — that sounds like a solid one-page site (hero, services, contact, WhatsApp button). Our fixed price for that starts at RM1,500 and we'd scope it properly before quoting. Want me to confirm availability this week?"

Give a fixed quote: "Here's the fixed quote: RM2,000 for a one-page site with the sections we discussed, delivered in about 2 weeks. That includes mobile-ready design, WhatsApp button, and handover. No hidden costs — does that work for you?"

Follow up without being pushy: "No stress if you're still deciding! I know you're busy. For reference, most SME sites in your industry take about 2 weeks and start at RM1,500. Happy to answer any questions whenever you're ready."

Your next step

Want a fixed quote for your business? Chat on WhatsApp and tell us what you need — we usually reply within the hour during business hours (9am–6pm MYT).
